Prisoner Magazine Raps 'Crime School' Programs on Radio

WETHERFIELD, CONN.—Since the following column, it might be said, from an authoritative "voice of experience," it will be heard by parents, officials and everyone concerned:

"I object! I vehemently object! I get glassy-eyed with anger and my trigger finger jerks spasmodically every time I think how the radio crime-presentation industry operates its debasing crime school."

The writer said he had listened to 50 radio "crime" programs in two weeks, one of which "gave details on how to snatch 75 G's worth of diamonds," while another showed how to use a bank for a 30-G stickup."

Also included, he said, were programs which "told how to black-mail recently widowed women out of 5 and 10 G's apiece," and gave details on a 40-grand kidnaping plot, with a little murder and extortion thrown in."

Collected radio crime presentation "the most blatantly debasing and most crime-inducing factor," which the American listening public has to contend," the writer-mate turns to television and asks: "When they get television to good, with half-concealed blood drips on to the nursery floor, will you still allow it? Will you still think it is thrilling?"

The foregoing was published by the Monthly Record, a conservative inmate of the Connecticut state prison, and circulated "outside" and "inside" in an article entitled "15,000 Murders a Month," which was written by an inmate of the prison.

Devotion to Duty Keeps Cart-Pusher On 15-Hour Shift

NEW YORK, N. Y.—This is the story of George Kucinski, a heavy handcart, and devotion to duty.

George, who is 56, started walking and pushing his handcart before him. That was at E. 10th street, Manhattan. Fifteen hours later a detective found him, pushing ever onward, at 220th and White Plains rd. the Bronx.

On a straight route the distance would be nearly 15 miles. George for reasons beyond his control, had got zipped. Police estimated that the cart and its burden weighed 600 pounds. And George had done it all without food.

He didn't exactly carry out his assignment, which was to get a load of artists' materials over to 228 E. 23rd st. But even his ten-hour shift was a record for a heavy handcart.

DEAR EDITOR

was referred to an electoral commission. Again he won by a single vote. And the man who cast the deciding vote for President Hayes was a congressman from Indiana, a lawyer who was elected to congress by the margin of just one vote, and that vote was cast by a client of his, who though desperately ill, insisted on being taken to the polls to vote.

Just one vote gave statehood to California, Idaho, Oregon, Texas and Washington. Get that now, that's quite a hunk of territory—there came into the nation the states of California, Idaho, Oregon, Texas and Washington. And today, all those millions of citizens in those states are citizens by just one vote.

Now you may say that one vote situation applies only to the distant past, but this thing comes on and on. Don't forget the Draft Act of World War II passed the house by just one vote.

And in 1944, one more additional Democratic vote in each of Ohio's 8300 precincts would have defeated Mr. Taft and in 1948 one more additional Republican vote in each of the precincts would have carried the state for Mr. Dewey instead of Truman.

From that it oughta be pretty plain that you should vote. I'm gonna do my best, but I might not elect the same officials you want and if you don't vote you ain't got no ground for complaining, not that I figger that'll stop you anyhow.

Now that that's all settled, I guess it's time I closed this letter and let you go to press.

See you next week.

Sincerely,

ETAION SHRDLU

Dear Folks,

I had had to change my mind about Alaska being all snow and ice. The weather is not bad at all. However I am sure that it must get very cold at times. There is about two feet of snow in the shade of the building I live in but it is melting fast. The ice in the China river broke up Monday and most of it is gone. The weather last Sunday and Monday was warm and sunny—very much like a quiet spring day at home. Since then the sky has been overcast and there has been a little rain and a light flurry of snow that melted as soon as it reached the ground. It is not yet as warm as it is at home, but I am comfortable in my uniform without gloves and overcoat. At Great Falls, Montana I was uncomfortable outside, even with an overcoat.

I have traveled quite a lot since I left home—by car to Mobile, by air to Fairfield, Suisun, Calif., by way of San Antonio, Texas—by bus to San Rafael, and to Pittsburg, Calif., train to Great Falls, Montana, and air here to Fairbanks, Alaska by way of Ft. Nelson, Canada. Most of the travel was nice, but about two miles out of Great Falls I got air sick. When we stopped at Ft. Nelson I unfolded one of the plane's litters and lay down all the way to Fairbanks. That helped a lot and I am feeling better, but I hope the three of you there are fine.

The Windy Corner

(By Fred S. Watson)

After the old home owners of Farmers Academy community sold their farms, the new home owners endeavored to keep pace with the old home owners in the standards of living. However their families were smaller and the children did little work in the field. Soon they failed to make their payments to the Federal Land Bank and converted it into a forest reserve, commonly known as the Pea River project. In 1938 the government owned more than 65 per cent of the original Farmers Academy community. Houses were sold and moved, places were set out and a tower erected for watching for forest fires. In giving right-of-way to the project, the community moved westward for four miles.

In 1938 there were three chair factories in Farmers Academy community giving employment to 15 percent of the families. Farmers Academy has suffered greatly in the past from fires—two store houses with their contents, seven dwelling houses, a school building.

Farmers Academy community has had many hard working, intelligent, thrifty and prosperous farmers. The newly cleared land was fairly productive, the woodlands amply supplied lumber, shingles, rail fences and fuel for the farm and home.

In the early 1850's, the pioneers built their first school house in the community. It was a one-room structure of split logs with only two openings, a wood window shutter and door. It was covered with split pine boards. A few square nails and many wooden pegs were used in its construction. Across one end of the room was a large open fire place and the chimney was made of sticks and mud. The benches were made of split logs supported by four large pine pegs. This school was located a half mile south of the later site of the school.

Mr. Virgil Albright of Geneva was the first teacher of this school which bore no definite name. Among other teachers of the school were Miss Cordella White of Bay Ridge, and F. Pierce Hildreth, of Farmers Academy community. They were hired and paid by the community. The curriculum was solely the three R's, reading, 'rith, and rithmetic. Most of the reading was from the old Bible. All writing and arithmetic was done on a slate and usually erased on a cost piece.

The school term was a few weeks each mid-winter and mid-summer. The day began when the teacher arrived at the school house, often very early. There was no such thing as tardiness for the pupils. When they arrived they went inside and began their studies. About mid-morning a lengthy recess was given and one of the boys would take the home-made cedar water bucket. After he fetched the water, everyone drank from the same gourd dipper. The woods in one direction was the boys' toilet, and in the opposite direction was the girls' woodland toilet.

The children played 'Hail over' the school house until the teacher rapped his history stick across the logs, which meant it was time for "books." Pupils did not ask for permission to leave the room. They merely got up, walked to the door, took one of the two forked sticks from its peg and then left the room.

Var Vets Encounter Failure in Telephone Efforts at Peace

NEW YORK—A group of war veterans failed in a spectacular attempt to put President Harry Truman and Russian Premier Joseph Stalin on the same party line through a long-distance telephone switchboard.

The Duncan-Parris American Legion post wanted the two heads of state to arrange a date to meet and make peace. The veterans got only silence from Moscow and a cold shoulder from the "Little White House" where the President was staying.

It was golden silence, too, since the veterans had to pass the hat to get the $187.69 it cost to talk to cheery-voiced long distance operators and a traffic supervisor for an hour and 10 minutes.

They also got hooked for a transatlantic call from Paris, where three post members were cheering the attempted telephone truce from the European sidelines.

The post rented a parlor in a hotel for $45. It spent $22.34 on telegrams and cables to Mr. Truman and Stalin asking if it was all right to place the call. None of the queries was answered.

"Another $77 was spent installing a telephone, a wire recorder and a loud-speaker system to amplify the conversation which never took place.

Inspectors Find Supposed Beefsteak Was Horse Meat

HOUSTON, TEX.—Seizures of thousands of pounds of horse meat processed to resemble choice beef tenderloin has been announced in this city and Dallas.

Houston city veterinarian R. S. Martin said 3,000 pounds of a 5,000 pound horsemeat shipment to Houston had been sold to a restaurant here before city inspectors discovered it.

More than 4,000 pounds of horse meat, labeled beef tenderloin, was confiscated by city health officers, and federal agents in Dallas.

At Fort Worth the city health department confiscated 3,000 pounds of meat but declined to label it horse meat. "We are not sure what it is," said the city health director, W. V. Bradshaw.

A great part of the horse meat shipments came from Kansas City and a federal investigation was begun there.

Cpl. Charles Perkins Assigned As Supply Clerk In Unit In Japan

Charles R. Perkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Perkins of Elba, recently has been assigned to the headquarters squadron of the Eight Fighter Bomber Wing as a supply clerk.

Corporal Perkins attended the Elba High School and enlisted in the United States Army Air Force in December of 1948 at Montgomery. Upon completion of his basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, he was assigned as a clerk-type student in a school at Fort Frances E. Warren, Wyoming.

Completing the course, he transferred to Maxwell Air Base and performed duties in the Purchasing and Contracting office.

He remained on duty there until alerted for movement to the Far East Air Forces.

Arriving in Japan in April of 1950, he was assigned to the "occupational" Fifth Air Force and subsequently reassigned to Itazuke Air Base, the home of the "combat-ready" Eighth Fighter Bomber Wing.

Doctor Thwarted
In Research Dream
Bestows Hospital!

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA.—A frustrated researcher, who wants to see his wealth bear fruit in medical research, while he is still alive, has given away a hospital here.

The hospital, a private psychiatric institution, valued at $250,000, goes to the new Oklahoma medical research foundation, Dr. Coyne H. Campbell, a 45 year old physician who has practiced psychiatry here since 1923, is turning the Spencer Road sanitarium on the outskirts of Oklahoma City over to the research group. There was a touch of regret in his remarks as he announced his donation.

"I always wanted to do medical research," he explained, "but I got sidetracked into clinical medicine. This gift will compensate in part for my not having done research. Also I had rather make this gift at the age of 45 and see something come of it, than wait until I am 75 to give it."

"I can now see the fruits of my labor benefit other persons."

Once "sidetracked"

Dr. Campbell indicated he was "sidetracked" from his own research ambitions simply by a combination of circumstances. On gaining his medical degree at the University of Chicago in 1920 he started a general practice in Frederick, Okla. But then his interests were suddenly switched to the field of psychiatry when he was named assistant superintendent of the Western Oklahoma state hospital.

This interest carried him into the specialized psychiatric field with graduate study at the Chicago Institute of Psychoanalysis. Completing this work he returned to Oklahoma to establish his own psychiatric clinic.

The doctor, who sees "no point in amassing great wealth," severed all proprietary interest in the sanitarium with his donation to the research foundation. But last week within a week of the original deal, Dr. Campbell agreed to the request of the research foundation's officials to stay on at the sanitarium as its director.

The foundation wanted him to take a 10 year contract guaranteeing the position but Dr. Campbell would have none of that.

No Conditions Attached

"The gift was made without any conditions as to the use to which the property will be put," the doctor explained. "Therefore I do not want the foundation to be bound by contract to employ me to operate the sanitarium for any specified period of time."

He therefore agreed to stay on "at the convenience of the foundation" at $500 a month. He also will

Those Who Seek Pirate Treasure Rated as Chumps

WASHINGTON. — This may be washing a lot of cold water on a lot of heated interest in buried treasure—but according to experts and the record, anyone who goes hunting for pirate gold puts himself in the chump category.

That's the word from Lt. Cmdr. K. D. Dan Murray, formerly of the British merchant marine. He says he has been checking up on pirate lore ever since he first read "Treasure Island."

Murray said that it is quite true that pirate gold exists by the bushel for those lucky enough to find it.

Island Treasure Sites

On the island of Trinidad, for instance, he is pretty sure some 30 million dollars is stashed away. He is pretty sure, too, that plenty is buried on Coos Island, off Central America.

Furthermore, he says, records are fairly complete of ships that have gone down, stuffed to the deck with treasure. But this stuff is almost impossible to find. If it is in water, it is now far below the ocean's bottom. If it is on land, the very terrain may have changed so much that even the maps—if they still exist—no longer are any good.

Murray thinks piracy was a pretty good business, back in its day. But now it is a dead end. Most of the time of the first ship. And pirates still exist off the China coast.

The old-time pirate had a strict code, according to Murray, and like any old yo ho he and a bottle of rum.

One Blundered pirate, a Capt. Roberts, allowed no wine, women or assorted wickedness. And if another ship was captured, Capt. Roberts turned loose all who could give any one of the Ten Commandments.

One Drawback

Murray points out one drawback to modern treasure hunting: There have been no major developments in the science since the invention of the diving bell and the diving suit.

Of modern inventions, he thinks only the mine detector has many possibilities.

The commander seems to be doing all right. True, on his rambling, he has managed to pick up only a few pieces of pirate gold. But he has been acting as technical adviser on motion pictures of the sea, especially those with a piratical twist.

There is more than one way to skin a cat—and more than one way to get at buried treasure. He said he saw how much he thought was buried in Hollywood.

Shades of the Sheikh! Arabs Tabbed Mashers

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—You should not talk to strange women here unless the women speak first, District Judge Harvey L. Neelon advised two Arab students in the district court. The students were charged with disorderly conduct on complaint of two 19-year-old girls who testified that the men invited them for a ride in an automobile.

The students were Jacob Abidin, 23, and Salim Akrawi, 19, Abidin, whose home is in Jerusalem, Palestine, is studying electronics at the vocational school. Akrawi, whose home is in Iran, is a dental student at Marquette university.

The complaints said in court that they were accosted as they left a restaurant. They refused the ride offer and took a bus, complaining to the bus driver that the car was following the bus, they said.

Abidin said that he and Akrawi had spoken to the girls because they were laughing so loudly. He said that "we never saw girls laugh so loudly before." He and Akrawi didn't mean anything wrong, he said.

Judge Neelon called this defense the "shillest argument I ever heard in a mashing case." He offered his advice about American customs and ordered the two men to pay costs, amounting to $4.40 each.
